THE TIMES.

A. H. C..EMENT, EDITOR

WEDNESDAY MAY, 9, 1906.

If th- Czar loses his Witte (?) all Russia will be involved in new trouble.

The doors of the White House have been flung wide open to Senator Tillman again, but he firmly declines to enter.

The Astor-Shaw marriage has at last been celebrated, and the Times-Dispatch will go down to history as a reliable prophet.

The V. M. I. boys were only allowed "fowl one day in the year." No wonder they protest and pronounce its foul play.

On his return from his trip around the world William Jennings Bryan could hold his own against a circus on the lecture platform.

Richmond should have begun work on the State Fair grounds and building months ago. Let Spaniards do things to-morrow, but that's not an American habit.

One day report has it that San Francisco is surfeited with food, next day famine threatens. Is the fault with the reporters or the relief committees? Some mistake somewhere.

Dowie is dying. It would be well for the world if the folly of following other false gods should die with him. Immortal man will never be satisfied with anything less than an infinite God.

We have been greatly surprised to learn that nations have gotten to be scarce in San Francisco. Our fellow countrymen must not be allowed to suffer. The granary of the globe must not fail to supply home folk.

Gen. Sherman's son has been walking in the footsteps of his father. We fail to recognize a feature of that raid on boast of. There is not much of the heroic about the mere act of burning houses and frightening women and children.

The negroes of Virginia will, no doubt, be gratified to know that the unfortunate of their race are more humanely cared for in the hospital at Petersburg than are the whites at Williamsburg. Send the news on to Massachusetts.

The days are longer and our farmers have the "hustle on." What would become of the rest of us if they should go on a "strike" for just one season? When the shock struck San Francisco the city had only three days' rations on hand.

Virginia's past is all secure and glorious. The present and the future should concern us. Just now the supreme duty is to get ready for the Jamestown Exposition. The county that fails in this emergency will have neglected a sacred duty.

We sincerely regret the exposure which our legislative committees have been making of our State institutions, educational and eleemosynary. Bad food and bedbugs make a repulsive combination. Mismanagement could not have been more elaborately emphasized.

Why should the socialists of Europe select "May Day" as the time for lawlessness and violence? The queen of months should be accorded a royal rather than a riotous welcome. It is the old story, "every prospect pleases and only man is vile."

William Jennings Bryan made a notable speech in the ancient city of Jerusalem, and a report of it has encircled the earth. Is he not the uncrowned king of the age? And yet the glittering generality of empty bugs were not willing to do him honor.

Senator Tillman was right when he said "our judges are but men," and he might have added as frail and fallible as are the rest of us. Even the supreme tribunal has often divided on political lines and political-made law is not vested with means of sanctity. "There are none righteous, no not one."

One of the most remarkable statements which has appeared in public print for "many a long day" is to the effect that while the Government appropriated $2,500,000 to the San Francisco relief fund only $300,000 was at present available and no one could tell just when the rest would be forthcoming. If Uncle Sam is short of ready cash, what's to become of the rest of us? An explanation is in order.

One Ogden has invaded the South again in a "special" car, and in presence of a Kentucky audience pronounced it the "imperial South." And yet this is the man who, by his example in his own palatial home in a Northern city, would break down Southern social barriers and so pull down the fair temple of which he has pleasant things to say on his regularly recurring visits.

Roosevelt vs. Rockefeller. Garfield vs. G. O. P. Now comes the "ring of war." "Us" Democrats will look on and laugh. "Lay on, McDuff and d—d be he who first cries hold, enough. The joke comes in when we remember that the outrage against which the President now protests so "strenuously" is the legitimate outcome of the policy of the Republican party. It has simply "protected" the law-breakers in their iniquity. To get rid of the evil the ax must be applied to its root. "Turn the rascals out" should be the battle cry, and under its inspiration a people's victory may be won.

Third Annual Meeting Virginia State Farmers' Institute.

The third annual meeting of the Virginia State Farmers' Institute will be held in the Casino in Roanoke on July 10, 11 and 12. This decision was reached at a recent conference of the sub-committee appointed by the Executive Committee to determine on the time and place for holding the next meeting. Application has been made to the railroads for a fare and a third rate which it is confidently believed will be granted. For the convenience of farmers who may not be able to spend the three days away from home, a request has been made to have the rates good going on the 9th, 10 and 11th, and returning on the 18th inclusive. Assurances have been given that a special train will be available to carry the delegates to the Experiment Station at Blacksburg, where they will have an opportunity to inspect the various lines of investigation in progress there and see the equipment of the College of Agriculture free of cost.

The last Institute was highly successful, more than 500 farmers being in attendance, and the organization is in a thriving and vigorous condition as is shown by the publication of a creditable report containing more than 150 pages. The following are the names of the officers and vice presidents:

President J. Hoge Tyler, Radford; 1st Vice-President, T. O. Sandy, Burkeville; 2nd Vice-President, John T. Cowan, Cowan's Mills; Secretary, Andrew M. Soule, Blacksburg; Asst. Sec'y., J. M. Williams, Roanoke. The following are the vice-presidents for the several congressional districts:

1st A. Jeffers, Norfolk; 2nd Jos. Bryan, Eagle Point; 3rd Jos. R. Anderson, Goochland; 4th C. N. Stacy, Amelia; 5th Dr. J. R. Cuerrant, Calloway; 6th S. C. Goggin, Rustburg; 7th J. G. Martin, Coves ville; 8th W. S. Lewis, Leesburg; 9th W. B. Robertson, Saltville, 10th Joel Flood, Appomattox.

Any farmer in the State is eligible to membership on the payment of $1.00 and every person is cordially invited to attend as the sole object of this organization is to have an annual gathering representative of the agricultural interests of Virginia at which various topics of general concern to the farmers may be discussed. No effort or expense will be spared to make the program superior to those of previous meetings. Announcement with reference to this and other matters of interest to farmers who desire to attend the meeting will be made from time to time. Every farmer interested in better methods of agriculture, insuring a more permanent prosperity for this State, should make it a point to paste the dates in his hat and so adjust his farming operations that he will have sufficient leisure on the dates indicated to attend the institute.

ANDREW M. SOULE,
Secretary.

The Cattle Quarantine.

EDITOR TIMES:

Sir—I have been approached several times of late by different citizens residing in this section of the county and asked to give a satisfactory explanation of the cattle quarantine regulations as they effect Appomattox since Campbell county was removed from the infected district. Not being thoroughly familiar with the subject myself I addressed a letter to Dr. J. G. Ferneyhough, State Veterinarian, at Blacksburg, requesting him to furnish the desired information, and I herewith take pleasure in transmitting you a copy of Dr. Ferneyhough's letter for publication:

"In reply to your letter of the 26th instant as to the condition of Campbell county relative to the quarantine, I wish to say that Campbell county is now quarantined against all of the counties below the Federal and State line. Cattle out of Campbell county, except those on farms where ticks were found last year, may be moved to the non-infected or non-quarantined counties above after said cattle have been inspected and a written permit has been given to the effect that said cattle are free from infection. This is done, however, by a regular inspector. Now, stall-fed cattle from your county, Appomattox, may be shipped or moved to the city of Lynchburg for immediate slaughter until the 15th of May, 1906, provided, that the owners of these stall-fed cattle write to this office giving number of cattle and stating that they are stall-fed, have not been on pasture, and asking the permission to move these cattle to Lynchburg for immediat slaughter before the 15th of May. Then I will at once send this request to Washington, when the Secretary of Agriculture will send me a permit, and will order his inspector from Lynchburg to go and at once inspect these beef cattle, and if they are free from ticks they will be allowed to be sent to Lynchburg. I have an engagement to go before your Board of Supervisors at Appomattox, on the 14th of May. Then I am going to try to show the people of your county how they can go together with me and get your count; in the same position that Campbell is now in. In fact, I think if the county of Appomattox will appoint some good local inspectors to work under the supervision of this office that we can, in fact, your county this summer, and if we find only a few farms infected we can then quarantine the infected farms, and upon inspection permit the cattle from the portion of the county which we find to be free to be moved out. However, the first step is to appoint these inspectors, and the next is to quarantine your county against the infected counties below you so as to prevent the reinfection that set Campbell in your quarantined against your county, so must you quarantine against the other infected counties below you. By the above method we can remove the line south to a great extent, for just as soon as you commence to quarantine against the counties below you the said counties are going to get tired of living below the line and they will then go to work."

(Signed) "J. G. FERNEYHOUGH,
State Veterinarian.

If Appomattox is allowed to remain within the quarantine line established by the State and Federal authorities and no effort be made on the part of her citizens to remove this terrible incubus from the cattle industry of the county, in addition to the restrictions already placed upon stall-fed beef cattle, the average farmer who rushes a milch cow to Lynchburg every once in awhile for the purpose of obtaining a little ready cash will, so far as his principal market is concerned, be as completely "bottled up" as was Admiral Cervera with his Spanish cruisers in the harbor of Santiago. I am glad Dr. Ferneyhough is to address the Board of Supervisors on a subject with which he is thoroughly conversant, and I bespeak for him a cordial reception at the hands of the board, knowing, as I do, his intense loyalty to the cattle industry of Virginia, and his earnest desire to see that industry, so essential to the building up of our impoverished lands, put upon a firm and lasting basis.

Couple at Own Funeral.

The monuments at the graves of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Covington were unveiled in Hebron cemetery, near Bennetteville, ariboro county, South Carolina, yesterday in the presence of a large gathering. The aged couple were present to participate in the exercises and hear the eulogies of themselves. J. P. Gibson, member of the House of Representatives, was the orator. Capt Frank Manning presided and made an appropriate speech, and an essay was read by Miss Jean Cameron, of Virginia.

Some time ago Covington had the graves for himself and wife prepared and tombs erected bearing the inscription, "Joel Covington, December 21, 1830," and "Charity Ann Covington, August 30, 1838."

Covington has contracted with the marble woras to inscribe the dates of their deaths. He says he was to put his relatives to as little trouble as possible after he is dead. He had two sons, Thomas and Julius, both prosperous and useful citizens. Julius was mayor of McColl for several years.

"Uncle Joel" is a jolly old man and enjoys telling and hearing a joke. He sometimes goes and lies down in his tomb and laughs about its not being as comfortable as he would like.

During Gibson's speech yesterday the old man, usually so full of mirth, bowed his white head over his open grave and vainly tried to conceal his tears and sobs, and there was not a dry eye in the gathering. After the exercises he entertained a number of his friends at dinner.—Roanoke World.

Mr. Rockefeller inadvertently omitted a cipher or two from his contribution to the benefit of the earthquake sufferers.

THE CREDIT HOUSES

Said there was not enough people who could afford to pay cash to keep us going. WELL.
